

Procedure to Train as an RDAA Level 2 Riding Coach

PLEASE NOTE: The Level 2 training course is in the process of an extensive review. Please refer to the information on the RDA Coaches' Portal or contact RDA Australia.

1. How to Apply

Fill out this Application to Train Form. Your application must be approved by your Centre Management Committee and signed by your Coach Educator. Send your completed application to your State Office (or to the National Office if you do not have a State Office). Make sure payment for your manuals is made to RDA Australia.

2. Choose Your Coach Educator

Discuss your wish to train as a Riding Coach with RDA Centre personnel such as RDA Centre committee members and RDA Riding Coaches. Make enquiries about available Riding Coach Educators to supervise you. Your Coach Educator does not have to be at your Centre but they should be someone who can support your learning as a mentor, has time to mark your workbooks, answer questions and someone you can build a rapport with.

3. Approval of Application

The RDA State Association will inform you that it has ratified your application and will then send your form to RDA Australia for processing.

4. Training Materials

RDA Australia will issue your manuals to you once your Application (with completed order form) and payment has been received.

5. Completion of Course Requirements

Complete workbook activities and practical coaching under the supervision of your Coach Educator.

6. Assessment

When you and your Coach Educator agree you are ready to be assessed, you can choose two RDA Riding National Assessors and make arrangements for your assessment. There are two possible outcomes from the assessment: Competent or Not Competent

7. Post Assessment

If assessed as competent, your Assessors will sign off your Competency Assessment Form and forward the paperwork to RDA Australia who will advise your State Office. RDA Australia will send you a Certificate and Coaching card with your new qualification.

If assessed as Not Yet Competent, discussion and advice on further training and assistance is available. If you think your assessment was unfair, you can appeal the decision. Contact RDA Australia for the correct procedure.

How will you deal with the private information I have included in my submission?

The information gathered on this form is entered into the RDA Australia database of registered coaches, maintained by RDA Australia. This information may be shared with the Australian Sports Commission (ASC) in conjunction with national sporting associations and state sport education centres. Coaches will be sent relevant up-to-date information and may be contacted by the ASC. Your information will not be used or disclosed except in accordance with the provisions of the Privacy Act 1988.

Information for Applicants

What are the age and riding skill pre-requisites for the Level 0 course?

You must:

- At least 18 years old at the time of commencing this course
- A currently accredited Level 1 RDAA Riding Coach of at least 12 months
- Able to ride, or previous riding experience and specifically be able to show dressage movements and paces found in Para –equestrian Dressage tests (Grade 1, 2 and 3) and be able to ride over a small jump of at least 35cm. Evidence of riding competency can be provided either by a live demonstration, a video or written verification of current/previous riding experience from a Level 1 (or above) EA Coach or Level 2 RDAA Coach.

Note: if you have a disability, your case will be considered on its merits

About the Level 2 Training Course

The course continues to be available in its current form but in future will be divided into two streams of specialisation: Training for Competition principles or Therapeutic Riding principles. As you start this course, you might think about which units relate to your preferred area of specialisation.

Once completed, you will have met the following Competency Standards:

- Conforms to RDAA rules and guidelines when running an RDA Program
- Support risk management protocol in accordance with RDA and WH&S practices
- Communicates and facilitates sensitively using appropriate language relevant to situations and activities undertaken by riders, volunteers and other key stakeholders
- Demonstrates the ability to methodically observe, analyse and develop rider skills in line with realistic short and long term goals
- Selects and develops advanced discipline specific training techniques for RDA horses according to RDA methods and best practice
- Performs all tasks in a respectful manner in accordance with the Coach's Code of Ethics.

How long will the Level 2 Riding Coach training take?

It usually takes between 12-24 months to complete the Level 1 qualification. This depends on your previous background and how much time you spend training each week but you can take up to two years if you need. You can apply for additional time by contacting your State Office to request an extension.

Before receiving the Level 2 qualification, you must complete the following requirements in the 12 months before your final assessment.

- Teach for at least 40 hours as an assistant to a qualified Coach in the RDA program. A minimum of 20 hours must be with RDA, the remaining 20 hours can be logged as a qualified coach (if you have the qualification), with Pony Club, EA or Adult Riding club. To provide evidence of this, log your assistance hours on the Hours of Coaching log sheet (supplied in the manual).
- Attend or present at 2 or more half day coaching workshops conducted by qualified RDA Coaches or persons approved by State or National Coaching Committees. Show evidence of this attendance on the RDA Workshop Attendance Record sheet (supplied in manual)
- Spend at least one day helping at an RDA Centre other than your own, working under a qualified RDA Coach. You must hold a current Workplace Level 2 (Senior) First Aid Certificate from St John/Red Cross or another recognised service provider. Please attach a copy of your certificate.

In exceptional circumstances, any of the above requirements maybe altered at the discretion of the National Discipline Committee or National Coaching Coordinator.
